More Than 120 REIT Management Teams Will Present Over Three-Day Conference

Largest REIT Investor Forum To Be Held June 3-5 In New York

WASHINGTON, DC, May 12—REITWeek 2014, the REIT industry’s most comprehensive investor conference, will be held June 3-5, at New York’s Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Over the course of the three days, more than 120 top management teams of leading U.S. REITs will present their investment strategies and respond to questions from investors, analysts and the news media. All of these sessions will be open to credentialed media for the conference, and the event provides exceptional access to the industry’s CEOs, top investors and analysts.

Participants will receive insights that will help them identify important company, sector and market trends. In addition to its extensive schedule of individual company presentations, REITWeek offers compelling speakers who will provide their own perspectives on the industry, the economy and global events. Tuesday’s opening lunch general session will feature a conversation with Blackstone Real Estate Advisors Head of Global Real Estate Jonathan Gray. Wednesday’s lunch session will feature a presentation by Fareed Zakaria, host of CNN’s GPS and Editor-at-Large of Time and the Washington Post.
