

Peter Kimball

Sr. Advisor
ISS Corporate Services

Peter Kimball is the primary advisor for compensation consultants and law firm clients of ISS Corporate Services, a subsidiary of Institutional Shareholder Services that helps issuers and third parties navigate the changing landscape of corporate governance. He counsels clients on equity plan requests, say-on-pay proposals, director independence issues, shareholder proposals, and other matters that may require shareholder approval. Peter is also a member of ISS's Global Policy Board, which develops and communicates annual updates to ISS's policies.

Before transferring to ISS Corporate Services, Peter was the head of several industry sectors in ISS's Research division. He wrote high-profile reports for the division, including reports on News Corporation's phone-hacking scandal in 2011 and Wal-Mart's alleged bribery in 2012, in addition to managing a team drafting and reviewing hundreds of reports for investors annually. While with the Research division, Peter also chaired the Board, Capitalization, Audit, and Takeover Subcommittee of ISS's Global Policy Board.

Peter is a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Virginia School of Law. Prior to joining ISS, Peter was an attorney at White & Case LLP.
